Speakers & Sessions

Angie Stone, RDH, BS

Angie began her career in the United States Navy as a Dental Technician. Her assigned mission was to help keep her fellow sailors dentally ready for deployment. After her enlistment she completed degrees in dental hygiene and psychology.

Angie's work in residential care communities exposed her to many patients with Alzheimer's Disease (AD). This, and the fact her family is experiencing their third generation of AD, Angie's calling has pivoted again. After being told she has the gene for AD and that there is nothing she can do to prevent her own diagnosis, Angie went to work to prove that there are things she can do. She now holds certifications as a Brain Longevity Specialist, Certified Dementia Practitioner and Certified Caregiver.

Course Description:

The brain is the most complex organ in the body. It controls thought, memory, emotion, touch, motor skills, vision, breathing, temperature, hunger and every process that regulates the body. Without an adequately functioning brain people become a shell of a human. Environment, lifestyle choices and genetics are directly correlated with brain deterioration. What is not being taught is how making choices and taking action can assist with the maintenance of brain function, as well as increase health span and longevity. As the medical professional who likely sees and spends the greatest amount of time with patients, dental hygienists are perfectly positioned to share this information. In fact, hygienists have an obligation to provide information regarding the causation relationship poor oral health has to Alzheimer's. By sharing the concepts learned in this course with patients, family and friends and the practicing brain maintenance themselves, hygienists can have a profound effect on the reduction of the number of people who suffer from cognitive decline.

Jaimie Kapadia, RDH, BS

With 15 years of dental experience, Jaimie has professionally evolved from an assistant, registered dental hygienist, and now a consultant/speaker. Jaimie has earned advanced certifications for lasers, leadership, and hygiene clinical consulting. In 2020, Jaimie joined Dental Laser Integrations, the nation's leading resource for combined laser certification & technology training, geared towards overall practice growth, personal and professional development.

Together, they have helped countless offices nationwide see an immediate return on investment and elevation of clinical standards of care. DLI Curricula is centered around improved hygiene preventative care models, dental business acumen, and creating a motivated team culture. In her downtime, Jaimie enjoys spending time with her husband and two kids, hiking, traveling and trying the trendiest restaurants in town.

Course Description

As dental medicine and community access to information continues to evolve, laser technology is becoming more sought after and widely accepted by patients of all demographics, creating a higher market value and competitive advantage to the technology-progressive dental practice! In this power packed session, we will attempt to shift the hygiene shortage by addressing the loss-leader stigma. We will visit the top laser hygiene therapeutic and diagnostic procedures for every 2023 clinical hygienist should be proficient in, as well as define the concept of the 2023 Prevention Specialist: The Hygiene-Intrapreneur!
